

Session Highlights

Greetings Bethel Church family and friends!

The Presbyterian Church in America (PCA) is governed by various courts, in regular gradation, which are all, nevertheless, Presbyteries, as being composed exclusively of presbyters (BCO 10-1). These courts are church Sessions, Presbyteries, and the General Assembly (BCO 10-2).

Why quote the BCO (PCA Book of Church Order) here? You will see as you read on that we are planning for two stated meetings of our church courts – the 94th Stated Meeting of Fellowship Presbytery January 24th and the 53rd PCA General Assembly June 22nd–26th. Our Teaching Elders (Chris and Mark) attend, and we also send two Session representatives to each of these meetings to do the business of the church.

PCA church courts are the governing bodies in the Presbyterian Church in America functioning like judicial tribunals to handle church discipline, disputes, and governance, with a structure from local church Sessions up to the General Assembly, adhering to the Book of Church Order (BCO) and emphasizing biblical principles, mutual accountability, and restorative justice rather than secular penalties. These courts, including Sessions, Presbyteries, and the General Assembly, review cases through appeals or complaints, focusing on church unity and scriptural purity.

We have many church ministry and business items to attend to; however, our utmost calling as elders is to shepherd the flock. Please continue to pray for our shepherding elders as we seek to know and be known here at Bethel.
